DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, line 3, it is unclear which direction the "inner side" and "outer side" of the door element face. It is unclear if the inner and outer directions refer to the inner and outer sides of the door shell or the inner and outer sides of the vehicle passenger compartment.

Claim 3 recites the limitation "the interior door" in lines 5 and 6. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. It is suggested the phrase be changed to --door inner element--.

Claim 5 recites the limitation "the stiffening ribs" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fett et al. (US Patent 6,158,789).

Fett et al. discloses a door inner element (30) made of plastic (column 1, lines 24-26) for a motor vehicle door which has a windowpane that may be raised and lowered, having an outer side, an inner side, an opening (34), leading from the inner side to the outer side, for passing through a force transmission element, used to actuate a door lock, in the form of a Bowden cable or an actuating rod and a cover (40), assigned to the force transmission element, as a break-in safeguard against unauthorized unlocking of the door lock from the outside using a manipulation tool. The cover has stiffening ribs (42, 38).

Fett et al. does not disclose the cover being molded in one piece onto the outer side of the door inner element.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the cover being molded in one piece onto the outer side of the door inner element, since it has been held that forming in one piece an article which has formerly been formed in two pieces and put together involves only routine skill in the art. See In re Larson, 340 F.2d 965 (CCPA 1965).

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 2, 3, and 5-10 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Harima et al., Doshita et al., and Staser et al. disclose vehicle door systems.
